DAILY RECORD

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1873.

A Magdarks.—Maria Butter, an undutiful daughter who ran away from her mother, in Montercy county, and entered upon a riotous life in the Bull Run saloon, was rescued by the police and detained until the distressed mother was apprised of her whereabouts. Mrs. Butter reached the city yesterday and immediately visited the City Prison, where the erring damsel was sented in the corridor, musing dejectedly in front of her latticed window. On noticing the approach of her grief-stricken parent, the guilty daughter burst into tears and wept bitterly. The mother stood gazing sternly daughter burst into tears and west on-terly. The mother stood gazing sternly for a moment upon the fallen creature, and then her feelings seemed to relent. Wildly exclaiming, "Maria Jane, you huzzy!" she sprang to gather her lost child in her embrace, and immediately after the atmosphere was hazy with loose hair, bonnet strings and other floating atoms. The prison-keeper and half a dozen "trusties" rushed in to abate the dozen trusties rushed in to abate the mad ardor of the greeting, but Maria Jane had lost her back hair cutire, and was more or less dilapidated before being rescued from the embrace of the distracted rescred from the embrace of the distracted parent. The fragments were lifted up tenderly and deposited in a handbasket along with the other baggage which Maria Jane took with her to-day when she started out to the Magdalen Asylum.—

THERE are some healthy soda springs over about the headwaters of Kern River, and some 200 of the Owens River pleasand some 200 of the Owens River pleasure seekers were over there rusticating about three weeks ago. They were going and returning daily, and seemed to enjoy it much. The springs possess peculiar curative powers, and the trout are fine and lively. Whole families go over for sport, and it seemed as if a fourth of the people were gone from Lone Pine at the time we were there.
